GIT AWE YU KIN.

I believe it's each man's duty
To go on kinder easier.
Not have no sweat nor strife,
Let things come out the best the will.
Course don't rush into a
But when you're getting anything
Git awei yu kin.

If you air going to buy some shoes
(Them's very useful things),
Just ask the clerk if he won't please
Throw in some extra strings.
You'll git the shoes for just the same.
It won't take no more time.
But when you're getting anything
Git awei yu kin.

If it's a shirt you're going to buy,
You want to make a holler.
Just brace right up to him an say
He must throw in a collar.
They natto be times when tids won't go
But she'll most allus win.
So when you're getting anything
Git awei yu kin.

The same holds good in going to church.
If you air going to the "pew."
Git enough to last your life
Instead of half an hour.
I tell you, boys, my idee is
An it has allus bin.
That when you're getting anything
Git awei yu kin. - Brooklyn Life.

German and English Weavers.

Mr. D. F. Schloss gives the following instructive contrast between English and German weavers: The well fed English weaver can without difficulty look after four looms and can with the aid of a juvenile assistant ("fenter") manage as many as six. But, as Dr. von Schulze-Gaevernitz tells us, notwithstanding that the continental manufacturers run their looms from 20 to 30 per cent slower than ours are worked, in Mulhouse and in Switzerland each weaver can only tend three, and in Germany you will seldom see a weaver able to tend more than two looms. The effect of the superiority of the English operatives upon the cost of production is shown by the fact that, although the rate of remuneration of our English weavers is about 100 per cent higher than that received by the Swiss and German "hands," yet we are able to turn out cotton cloth at a labor cost distinctly lower than that which obtains in Switzerland and Germany. - London Let-

THE BATTLE OF THE STANDARDS.

The news comes from Washington that the president has decided to convene congress in extraordinary session on Monday, August 7th. This is due to the uneasiness caused by the decline in silver. The action of the Indian government in suspending the coinage of silver on private account, and following the example of the United States, has given the financial question prominence over all other issues in Europe and America. Nearly all the silver mines are closing, as they cannot be worked with silver as low as it is at present. As there is a large percentage of gold in nearly all silver ores, the suspension of silver mining will lessen the production of gold. About thirty per cent. of the value of the Comstock bullion is gold, though the bullion is classed as silver. It is estimated that the suspension of silver mining will reduce the gold product from 20 to 30 per cent., and as from $30,000,000 to $10,000,000 of gold is used in the arts and made into plate and jewelry annually, there will not be much of the metal left for coinage, and a great scarcity of money must be the inevitable consequence.

It is evident that the people will not quietly submit to the contraction of the volume of money that must result from the policy of closing the mines and the mints and reducing the production of gold as well as silver. The conflict between the representatives of the masses and the classes will begin when congress convenes. If the dominant party is true to the people it will provide for the coinage of three or four million of ounces of silver monthly; if it does not pass an absolute free coinage bill. In that event it can reasonably hope to maintain its supremacy, but if the single standard theory prevails, it will surely result in the disruption of the party.

The battle of the standards, if not decided by congress, will be waged at the polls next year. With business depressed, enterprise paralyzed, wheat, cotton and corn cheaper than ever before and thousands out of employment the result can readily be foretold.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The act of the legislature of South Carolina relating to the liquor traffic goes into effect to-day. The act gives the State full control of the liquor business. The governor may establish dispensaries for the sale of liquor in the State and appoint officials to take charge of them. The State supplies the liquors for these dispensaries and the profits derived from their sale goes into the State treasury.

For some time the people of Charleston have been preparing for the radical change in the liquor traffic. Saloons and grocery houses have been selling out their stocks at reduced prices. Thousands of gallons have changed hands, many having laid in a supply for home use and the roads have been taxed to transport barrels, kegs and demijohns. It is estimated that two hundred saloons and liquor houses in Charleston alone will be closed and thousands of employees will be thrown out of work.

The South Carolina law is entirely different from any heretofore enacted to control the sale of spirituous liquors. The State alone is authorized to dispose of intoxicants and the officials appointed to manage the dispensaries, as the places where liquors are sold are termed, are responsible for any abuse of their authority. Some of the ablest lawyers in the State have been consulted relative to the validity of the law and they pronounce it constitutional and advise those heretofore engaged in the liquor business to obey it. Its advocates claim that it will reduce drunkenness to a minimum, increase the revenue of the State materially, as a profit of at least one dollar will be realized from the sale of every gallon of whisky, brandy and gin and a proportionate amount from the sale of wines and beer.

GOVERNOR ALTGELD EXPLAINS.

There is a strong feeling in Illinois for pardoning the anarchists who had been sentenced to life terms in the penitentiary for complicity in the Haymarket riots in 1888. Governor Altgeld who is an able lawyer, and as such watched the trial of the anarchists with interest, gives his reasons for extending clemency to Leeb, Schwab and Fielden. In reply to a reporter he says in the comments he has seen on the action there is only abuse. They do not mention the fact that the man who was chief of police at the time of the riot investigated the case thoroughly and does not believe there was a conspiracy. They do not mention the fact that jurors said they could not on account of the feeling existing give the case a fair and impartial trial. They do not mention the fact that the man who threw the bomb which killed the policeman was not taken into court and gave no evidence whatever at the trial.

The governor states that it was not proved in the slightest measure that the man who threw the bomb had any connection whatever with those whom he pardoned or was at all incited to the act by the conduct of those men, or had ever heard them make speeches. The reasons which he gave for exercising the pardoning power are not refuted, his critics contenting themselves with abusing him. Abuse, he claims, will not knock down those reasons and they must stand or fall on their merits. It has been intimated that Governor Altgeld had an understanding with the friends of the convicted anarchists that if elected he would pardon them, but there is no proof that such is the fact.

By Associated Press

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Congress to Convene on August 7th Next. Special to the JOURNAL.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The president left this afternoon for Buzzard's Bay, to be absent three weeks or more, his stay depending on circumstances. At 6 o'clock this evening the following proclamation was issued:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30, 1893. WHEREAS, Distrust and apprehension concerning the financial situation which pervaded all business circles has already caused great loss and damage to our people and threatened to cripple our merchants, stop the wheels of manufactures, bring distress and privation to our farmers and withhold from our workingmen the wages of labor, and

WHEREAS, The present perilous condition is largely the result of the financial policy which the executive branch of the government finds embodied in unwise laws which must be executed until repealed by congress, now, therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, in the performance of a constitutional duty, do, by this proclamation, declare that the extraordinary occasion requires the convening of both houses of congress of the United States at the capitol, in the city of Washington on the 7th day of August next, at 12 o'clock noon, to the end that the people may be relieved through legislation from the present and impending danger and distress.

All those entitled to act as members of the fifty-third congress are required to take notice of this proclamation and attend at the time and place above stated.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States at the city of Washington, on the 30th day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-three, and of the independence of the United States one hundred and seventeen.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

The determination to call the extra session the first week in August instead of in the first week in September it is understood, was only definitely arrived at this morning's cabinet session, after giving full weight to all the telegrams received from all parts of the country, and the consideration of which caused the president to change his mind.

Stanford's Will.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL.] SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The will of the late Senator Leland Stanford was filed for probate late this afternoon. His wife, Jane Stanford, is named as the sole executrix and she petitions for the probate of the will. Her petition states that the value of the estate is unknown but that it consists of stocks, bonds and real property in this State.

The will is a very lengthy document. Stanford leaves $2,500,000 to the trustees of the Leland Stanford Jr. University at Palo Alto; $300,000 to his brother Norman Welton Stanford, and $100,000 each to his other two brothers, Josiah and A. P. Stanford. His residence and the furniture thereof in this city he left to his wife and he set apart $100,000 for the erection of a tomb for the remains of himself, his wife and his son. Each of his nephews and nieces, of whom there are a number, receives $100,000. His wife is made residuary legatee. The instrument was originally dated November 29, 1886, but a number of codicils have been added since. Some of the legatees have died since the will was drawn.

Arizona Shooting.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL.] PHOENIX, A. T., June 30.—Sam Gray, a stage driver yesterday shot and killed J. W. Fry, keeper of Fry's Station, fifty-five miles north of this city on the Black Canyon route. There are no facts as to the killing, though a man outside the station heard the shots. Fry was shot three times, and Gray seeing he was dead straightened out his limbs, covered the body with a cloth and left it in charge of two tramps. He came to Phoenix at 2 o'clock this morning and gave himself up. He says the shooting was in self defense. He called on Fry to collect a bill of $30, when the latter with an oath drew a gun and tried to shoot, but the weapon failed to work. A son of Fry was killed here in similar manner some years ago. Both men live in Phoenix and Gray is well liked.

Weather Forecast.

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL.] SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The forecast for Nevada is fair weather and warmer.

A Surplus of $2,000,000.

Special to the JOURNAL.

They are under the management of Chas. H. Doudrick, of San Francisco. Don't fail to witness the thrilling leap for life.

The farmers are coming in force on the 4th, as the season is late, and haying will not commence until late next week.

"For pity's sake, George," said a distressed wife, "do get a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for that cough and give us a rest." He did so.

John Sparks returned yesterday from New York accompanied by his daughter, Miss Maude, who has been in Europe for the last two years.

The town already presents a beautiful appearance, and decorating has hardly more than begun. Some of the decorations are both unique and handsome.

The Manhattan mines at Austin closed yesterday. There is not a silver mine being worked in the State to-day except one at Tuscarora and a few on the Comstock.

Seven of the student of the Indian school at Carson arrived last evening on their way home to spend the vacation. They reside at the western Shoshone Agency.

The Reville says Stephens' stable in upper Austin was burned last Sunday afternoon. A horse and mule belonging to J. A. Hickok and a quantity of hay were destroyed by the fire. The fire was started by some children who were playing about the building.

"O'Dowd's Neighbors" at the Opera House last evening proved to be a very acceptable performance. It was laughable from beginning to end, and the play was interspersed with sweet singing and good dancing. Comstockers have a treat in store for them, and the company deserves liberal patronage.

The Silver State says: T. R. Hinsdale is in Winnemucca, having been sent out to examine public land surveys made in this county by Stewart and Monroe. Mr. Hinsdale is a son-in-law of Lee Crandall, editor of the National View.

The 8-year-old son of F. O. Robins of Winnemucca accidentally shot himself in the abdomen with a 22-calibre revolver. The Silver State says Dr. Hanson extracted the bullet without difficulty and does not apprehend any serious results from the wound on account of the small calibre of the bullet.

The new Truckee stables will be opened for business to-day. The building, which will compare favorably in size and appearance with any stable on the coast, is not completed but the front will be finished to-day and its proprietor, Mr. Hymers, has concluded to commence business.

FOSTER'S FORECAST.

The Next Storm Wave—Traditions of a Deluge—Drift and Glacial Periods. Copyrighted 1893 by W. T. Foster.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., June 30.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of a storm wave to cross the continent from June 30th to July 3d and the next will reach the Pacific coast about July 5th, cross the western mountains by the close of the 6th, the great central valleys from the 7th to the 9th and the eastern states by the 10th.

This storm will beat its greatest force on the 5th and 6th on the Pacific slope and heavy rains will accompany it in the southern states.

A warm wave will cross the western mountains about the 5th, the great central valleys about the 7th and the eastern states about the 9th. A cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 8th, the great central valleys about the 10th and the eastern states about the 12th.

FOUR HUNDRED YEARS AGO, when America was first discovered, the Mexicans had a tradition of the deluge, and the wonder is that it is so much like the Chaldean account. The Mexican tradition is that 48,000 years after creation a great flood came and destroyed nearly all the people. After this flood the survivors and the descendants began the erection of a great hill which was to reach to the clouds, but the gods becoming angry with them hurried fires on the builders and dispersed them.

The people of the Sandwich Islands believe that the whole human race, except a single pair, was destroyed by a great flood. This pair found safety on Mount Loa, the highest mountains of the Sandwich Islands.

The Hindus believe that a fish revealed to the king the coming of a great deluge that would sweep all creatures from the earth.

The Egyptians, 2,600 years ago, informed Solon, the great lawgiver of Greece, that the earth had been repeatedly overwhelmed by floods, and that the fable of the Phaeton means that matter moving around the earth fell to the earth causing a great destruction.

THE DRIFT AGE. In his Ragnarok, Donnelly says: "Geologists, basing their calculations on the recession of the falls of Niagara, suppose the drift to have come upon the earth about 30,000 years ago. This would nearly accord with the time given by Job when he speaks of the position of the constellation of stars. The deluge of Noah probably occurred from eight to eleven thousand years ago. Hence about 20,000 years probably intervened between the drift and the deluge. These were the myriads of years referred to by Plato during which man dwelt on the plain of the Atlantis."

In Egyptian history as preserved by Plato the deluge of Deucalion, which many things prove to have been identical with the deluge of Noah, was the last of a series of great catastrophes. Plato died 2,240 years ago and the historians of his time claim that Egypt was so situated that it was not disturbed by the great cataclysms that destroyed other countries. This distribution of the drift agrees with that claim of Egyptian history. So do the evidences of the ice ages, for the glaciers did not reach Egypt, and all these agree with my theory that the north pole was changed from about the Azore islands to where it now is.

The deepest water of all the oceans are found near the Azore islands, and this agrees with the fact that the earth is lower at the poles than at the equator. The greatest depression on this earth—now covered by water—is where the ancient north pole was located.

Near Memphis, Tennessee, an ancient wall of out stone is found buried deep in the soil. There is also found cisterns and pavements of Roman brick buried seventy feet below the surface. These are very old and the evidences would warrant the belief that they were there 30,000 years ago or about the time of the coming of the drift.

THEORIES NOT IN ACCORD WITH FACTS. Present theories as to the cause of the geological conditions of the earth do not account for the facts as we find them. The drift is a paste, an unstratified body of mineral clays covering one-half the earth, not like any other earthly thing. Whence came it? From the comets.

How came there to be enough moisture in the atmosphere to cause a universal deluge? When the comet struck the earth the universal heat and the great increase of electricity evaporated the waters of the ocean which, after many ages, myriads of years, returned to the earth in great floods.

The drift being composed of mineral atoms, infinitely small dust particles, fell suddenly and therefore is distributed only on one side of the earth, but the carbon being light like smoke from the furnace, floated for centuries in the atmosphere causing that age of darkness which every race and the geological records declare to have been one long and universal night.

When the carbon, of which our scientists declare the comets to be principally composed, finally settled to the earth then, thereby and in no other possible way, was our coal beds formed. When that carbon fell on land, only a blackened soil, our prairie lands was the result, but when it fell in the seas and oceans and ever moving waters held it long in solution, precipitating it as we find it in the coal mines of our time.

If reason could have her way these ideas would universally prevail and the utter fallacy of present orthodox theories based on a burning world, followed by the oft-repeated rising and falling of continents, would find no welcome. But the human race loves to be humbugged and an error once established has almost a perpetual home and welcome in the human mind.

NEVADA'S FIRST PRIZE. It Will Open the Eyes of Many Americans. We are pleased that Nevada has got the first prize in Chicago for butter. We do not know of any prize that could have done Nevada more good at this time. It will open the eyes of a good many Americans who have been thinking that they knew their country pretty well. The general idea of Nevada is that it is a land of forbidding mountains of granite and alkali deserts, and that all it ever produced or ever will produce is metal. The fact is that it has vast agricultural possibilities, and that even in its driest regions inexhaustible reservoirs of pure water lie immediately below the surface. No where does irrigation pay better than in Nevada, and irrigation is going to give the state a great future in all kinds of husbandry. All that retards Nevada's progress in this direction is the monopoly of the Southern Pacific Company. As soon as a competing transcontinental railroad passes through Nevada, our neighbor will wave with harvests and be alive with herds of fine cattle.—S. F. Report.

Probably the greatest novelty of Reno's 4th of July celebration will be the electrical American flag which will be exhibited at the pavilion on the night of the ball. The flag will be the regular government size, 9x6 feet, and the Stars and Stripes will be completely indicated by incandescent electric lights, 262 in number, all in red, white and blue, the effect of which will be exceedingly novel and effective. The cost to arrange this flag is $250. The light will be furnished free by the Reno Electric Light and Power Co. and this is the first time on the Pacific coast that such an electrical decoration has ever been prepared.

Notice to Members I. O. O. F. The members of Reno Lodge No. 19, I. O. O. F., are requested to meet at their hall on Chestnut street Sunday, July 2nd at 1:30 P. M. to attend the funeral of our late brother W. D. Wagar, which will take place from the family residence corner Third and Lake streets at 2 o'clock. All resident or visiting brothers are requested to join with us at this time. By order of the lodge, G. O. McNEES, Secretary.

Church Notices. M. E. Church—Next Sabbath in the morning we will consider "The Perils of Our Country," and in the evening "The Bank That Has Never Failed." All are cordially invited.

Dinner. The ladies of the Baptist church will again serve dinner, including ice cream and all the delicacies of the season, in the room below the opera house July 4th. Price 50 cents.

How a Fortune Was Handed Down.
 If you go to William Quincy's office, you learn from the fact that he is a lawyer, that he is a man of means. The history of his estate is almost romantic. His grandfather, the second Josiah Quincy, inherited a considerable estate from the founder of the family, who was the president of Harvard college and otherwise distinguished. The grandfather some 40 or more years ago interested himself in the construction of the Troy and Greenfield railroad, a part of which is now known as the Hoosac Tunnel line, and was not able to carry out his undertakings.

He was financially embarrassed, but did not become a bankrupt. He was possessed of a very large amount of property, and his creditors saw that in time he would be able to meet all his obligations, or that in the event of his death his estate would do so. The property was therefore converted into a trust, the creditors appointing a trustee and Mr. Quincy another.

This trust has lasted until the present time, but is about to be abrogated, all the obligations having now been provided for. For a number of years the present Josiah Quincy has been the principal trustee and manager of the estate, which will be worth $2,000,000 when the trust terminates.—Boston Cor. Washington Post.

Kossuth a Boodle? Never!
 No one familiar with the career of Louis Kossuth will for a moment credit the charge that the splendid and chivalrous manhood which dared death and exile for a principle has yielded to the base influence of the bribe giver. It is true that William of Orange and Lord Bacon, both statesmen and patriots of high rank, practiced bribery. Lord Clive and William Penn were also engaged in the same traffic. But Kossuth belongs to another age.

The ex-dictator of Hungary is said to have accepted $5,000 a year as the price of support for the present Hungarian cabinet. The absurdity of the accusation is shown by the fact that Kossuth has repeatedly declined the offer of King Humbert to settle a large pension on him and has even refused money from his own sons, preferring to earn his living in his old age by his pen, and thus enjoy the sense of independence. When Kossuth was ex-patriated three years ago 80 Hungarian cities and towns conferred honorary citizenship upon him within 24 hours after the law went into effect. At that time the venerable patriot resolutely rejected all proffered gifts of money. A man who could neither be bought nor frightened by Napoleon III or P. M. Kossuth is not likely to surrender his soul to a second rate Hungarian politician.—New York Herald.

J. F. Atkinson,

Attended Funerals and Denounced Rum.

A singular old fellow, Austin Robert, who was a sort of a genius, died at the town farm at East Hartford the other day, aged 71 years. The two passions of his life were temperance and a fondness for funerals. He never missed a chance to lecture on the "Demon Rum" or attend a funeral. During his life he had been a purely disinterested mourner at a good many more obsequies than he was able to remember and had delivered scores of lectures in grandiloquent phrases in halls or at the street corners, just as fate or luck would have it.

For many years he was employed by George Reynolds, who made and sold hop and nectar beer of the same sort. He was a lively and eloquent drummer and led the first fireman's parade ever held in Hartford. He spent his life trying to amuse his fellow man and make him "better and purer" and all that, and his fellow man put him in the town poorhouse in his old age.—Hartford Letter.

Drinking In Gotham.
 The New York papers are claiming that Gotham is more strongly opposed to drunkenness than any other city in the world. The moral consolation of this assurance is somewhat impaired from the fact that the sobriety claimed for the city is accounted for in the practice of the leading saloons of shutting off a man's grog when it becomes apparent that he is getting too many sails in the wind. Of course he takes on the balance of his cargo at any accessible port, and the standard made for sobriety under this system does not amount to much. There may be something in the claim that the outsiders who visit New York do most of the drinking, but Gothamites abroad indicate by their habits that home consumption has a good deal to do with the property of saloon keepers in the metropolis.—Detroit Free Press.

Sunshine comes, no matter how dark the clouds are, when the woman who is born down by woman's troubles turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If her life is made gloomy by the chronic weakness, the delicate derangements, and painful disorders that effect her sex, they are completely cured. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run down," she has new life and strength.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, and invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nerve, purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every female "complaint" or disturbance, it is the only remedy so sure and unfailing that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure you have your money back.
